

I'm a passionate information designer who develops products that enhance knowledge transfer. My work ranges from insightful visualizations through user-friendly interfaces and powerful identities. I care about content. As a co-author I'll search for the story behind your data and as an editor I'll enforce your story with visual means. My goal is to inform, explain and enlighten people. Therefore, the user experience is always a key factor in any design decision. I translate predefined parameters into an intrinsic form.
